Kiwanis Club Hears Talk On Trade

With C. G. Colvin, of Russell & Colvin, as the principal speaker of the day, the Richmond Kiwanis club met yesterday in the Hotel Carquinez.

Taking as his subject "The Trend of Trade," Colvin declared that the trend of national business is slightly upward. He outlined the most favorable factors in business as increased steel and automobile production, large volume of retail trade, more stable prices, light mercantile inventories, easy money and high federal reserve ratios, new enterprises, excellent demand for investments and continued decline of interest rates.

The less favorable factors cited by Colvin were severe competition in the automobile business, low prices for farmers, lower payrolls, large manufacturers' inventories; over production of oil and copper, increase in business failures, disturbed conditions in China and Mexico.

Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. James Stuart.

MORE MARINES TO BE RUSHED TO RIOT ZONE

Cantonese Suffer Heavy Defeat At Hands Of Shantung Forces

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
WASHINGTON, April 6.—The United States tonight appealed to private ship owners to transport more troops to China if necessary and to evacuate Americans from the danger zone, it was learned. This was made necessary by a new crisis and menace to foreign lives in North China and to the fact that the government lacks quick means of transporting marines now being mobilized in San Diego.

The appeal was virtually a call to active service for such ships as are selected from the merchant marine, which is a naval reserve. The admiral Oriental and the Pacific mail steamship lines which operate from Pacific Coast ports to the Orient and now have ships available in the far east were the first appealed to.

Dollar Offers 17 Ships
Stanley Dollar, president of the two lines, immediately offered to place 17 of the modern "President" class of ships at the disposal of the government. He declared he would be able to evacuate all Americans and transport sufficient marines and munitions for their protection while in China.

At the request of the government he is now rushing one of his fast liners, from a far east port to Tientsin to bring off Americans who wish to leave. The President Pierce is leaving Shanghai on April 9 with 300 American refugees in the steerage. (Continued on Page 5)

Industrial Loan Company Named In Suit

Suit against the Richmond Industrial Loan and Finance company, seeking to collect $285 for alleged malicious prosecution, has been filed by C. B. McCaskey. The trial will take place before Justice John Roth. McCaskey is represented by T. N. Calfee as attorney.

The action is the outgrowth of a suit filed by the finance company against McCaskey, Fred C. Bacon and Grak Kimbrough to collect a note of $175. McCaskey claims that his name was forged to the paper.

Eastbay Regional Plan Association Meets In Oakland

Representatives from local civic organizations were in attendance at the meeting held by the Eastbay Regional Plan association last night at the Hotel Oakland.

Carol Aronovich, representing the mayor's office, and Marie MacDonald Jensen, of the Richmond Merchants' Association attended the meeting, at which preliminary steps were taken leading to concerted action by all of the cities between Niles and Richmond for a regional plan.

Such a regional plan as discussed would relate to streets and highways, water front development, water transportation, rail lines, parks, playgrounds, recreation areas, zoning regulation of business areas, building heights, set-back lines and numerous other phases of city planning.

THEY FORGOT THE "BLIND" VOTE THOUGH

(City Universal Service)
EVANSTON, Ill., April 6.—One thousand six hundred and sixty-seven lives were saved in 1925 through prohibition, it was announced by the W.C.T.U. here today.

The statement issued at the national headquarters here said:

"Had the old prohibition death rate continued, 5361 persons would have died of alcoholism instead of the 3964."

"There have been 13,640 fewer deaths from alcoholism in the six prohibition years in the United States than would have occurred based on former records."

EL CERRITO TO ENFORCE MIRA VISTA ZONING

El Cerrito has taken up the important question of zoning in the Mira Vista section. Mayor Charles Zimmerman and the board of trustees of that city have proposed to limit building in Mira Vista to residential construction. City Attorney Wilbur S. Pierce has been instructed to make plans for the project.

The action taken comes quickly on the heels of that action taken by the Richmond city planning commission and the city council to prevent encroachment of business in a section where the residents located with the understanding that it was to be strictly residential.

Missing Pilots Found Dead In Wreckage Of Mail Airplane

(City Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Edward A. Neher, air mail pilot and his passenger, Alfred Shaller, missing since Sunday morning last when Neher hopped off from Fresno for this city, were found dead today, buried in the wreckage of a plane, four miles east of Gustine in Merced county.

Both bodies were badly mangled.

The wrecked air mail plane and its passengers were found by an employee of Miller and Lux ranch. The plane was found in a ditch three feet deep.

Pilot Neher's right hand gripped a flashlight, reports to the Pacific Air Transport company here, stated.

It is believed that both men were instantly killed. The cause of the tragedy is not known.

Neher and Shaller were both office managers of the Pacific Air Transport company, left Fresno at 2:30 Sunday morning for San Francisco. Then they failed to arrive here, a search was immediately started and army airplanes from the Presidio searched the San Francisco bay area for trace of them. It was at first feared they had plunged into the bay.

Neher and Shaller were both San Franciscans. Neher had an enviable record as an aviator.

Matinee Ladies Is New Story In Record-Herald

A new continued story comes to the pages of the Record-Herald today. If you have seen Rod La Roque in "Gigolo" you will want to read "Matinee Ladies," a story of a young man who attempts to add to his income by dancing with rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Needless to say, he despises such a means of livelihood—until he meets the girl—and then . . . You will find the opening installment of this story of modern, high-tension living on Page 2, beginning today.

Plans Made For Truck Boulevard System And Fast Traffic Lanes

GARRARD BOULEVARD AND TENTH STREET TO BE MAIN ARTERIES OF TRAFFIC FROM THE NORTH

Comprehensive plans for a truck boulevard system and fast vehicular motor traffic lanes for the East Bay cities of which Richmond is a very important link, were presented to the streets and highways committee of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, headed by George Fredenburg, who is also chairman of the city planning commission, by Dr. Carol Aronovich, Richmond's City Planning expert, meeting at the New Hotel Carquinez at noon yesterday.

Working in co-operation with the citizens' city plan committee of 100 in Oakland which has employed Harlan Bartholomew of St. Louis, internationally known City Planner, Dr. Aronovich told the committee that Richmond's plans were tied definitely into the plans of Berkeley, Albany, Emeryville, Oakland as being worked out by Bartholomew and his assistants.

GRAND JURY FINDS C. C. JAIL UNFIT

With the county jail in Martinez filled to overflowing with prisoners, Chairman O. R. Ludwig of the 1927 grand jury committee has recommended that new and additional quarters be provided to relieve the congestion. The present county jail is an antiquated building built 35 years ago to accommodate a small number of prisoners. Prohibition violators have filled it completely.

"Men are sleeping everywhere in the passageway, on top of the steel tanks, in corridors and in any nook and corner where a mattress can be spread," said Ludwig, in discussing the matter. "There is a space near the jail about 40 feet square and I suggest that a high fence be erected around this and that prisoners who are not liable to seek to escape be allowed to exercise in this for several hours daily."

JAIL IS FULL

"The jails of the country are filled to overflowing," said Sheriff R. R. Venie. "They say that they should send more people to jail for violation of the 18th amendment. I don't know where we will put them if they do. The number of prisoners in the jails of the county have doubled in the past six years. The federal prisons are overflowing and we are endeavoring to assist the national government in handling its problems. I now have bootleggers sent here from Arizona because there is no room in the jails of that state. In Los Angeles county jail there are over 150 federal prisoners."

"The county is talking of building a new hall of records on its property across the street (from the courthouse) and I think that a new jail should be placed on top of the building. That's the proper place for the prison."

WARS AND SCHOOL BOOKS

A PROFESSOR of history in Connecticut college, writing in the Advocate of Peace, gives a vivid example of the lop-sided way in which history is still written. He tells of two schools, one German, and the other French, on opposite banks of a little stream which constitutes the Franco-German boundary.

"Hans, what caused the World war?" asks the teacher on the German side. And Hans repeating the lesson he has just learned from his history textbook, says:

"English jealousy and French revenge were the chief among many causes. Germany is guiltless."

"Francois," asks the teacher in the French school, a stone's throw away, "what caused the World war?"

"The war," replies Francois, "was caused solely by German aggression. The Germans, believing themselves to be a superior race, had plotted to exterminate the French."

There are similar differences in the views taught regarding the peace treaty. Hans states, with the approval of textbook and teacher, that it is "a peace of enslavement and a gross breach of the allies' pre-armistice promises." Francois states, with similar approval, that it is "a peace of justice, based on Mr. Wilson's fourteen points, whereas the Germans planned for us a peace of slavery."

Hans and Francois cannot both be right. The teachers cannot both be right. The textbook writers cannot both be right.

Every nation, however, insists on writing its own history, with its own viewpoint, making school histories the greatest of all systems of propaganda and the source from which spring new wars.

"No alien can be compelled to become an American citizen. After he is duly admitted an alien can stay here as long as he lives peacefully and observes the law."—News item. Of course, if he doesn't want to live peacefully and observe the law he has the prerogative of becoming a citizen.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

President Coolidge and President Hindenberg exchanged greetings over the new trans-Atlantic cable but there is no report to the effect that their conversation was anything like that between the governors of North and South Carolina.

BE PLUMP IF YOU WOULD BE HAPPY

Every little while, to be sure, we meet a poor scrawny half starved creature who nevertheless is just as nice as such a creature can be. It is undoubtedly a fact that thin folk generally live longer than fat folk do, but they certainly seem to take life sadly, even so.

There is a type of obesity which doctors recognize as a feature of functional deficiency of the thyroid gland, and the victim of this type of obesity is likely to acquire a gloomy disposition or a melancholic outlook, which is often in striking contrast to her former sunny, happy frame of mind. But the majority of the Gloomies Guesses and Dismal Dinahs are skinny.

Succumbing to the craze for reduction, a Nashville woman scorned good health advice and warnings and began taking a sure shot obesity cure which contained as its principle ingredient thyroid extract. This unfortunate woman was about 35 years old, well and happy. She was none too stout, in fact for good looks or for good health, but all the women in her circle were talking about reduction and she just couldn't resist the pull of the craze. In a few weeks she lost about 30 pounds. Then she was happy?

Not so you could notice it. She's skinny now, all right, but even her bridge friends agree she is not the same woman any more. She has become a cantankerous as a neurotic spinster. Her complexion, formerly envied by her friends, is now a total loss, and she has accumulated a fine assortment of symptoms. Most of her symptoms are of the kind that make good church going doctors swear softly under their breath. The wretched woman's insides have lost their moorings and are sliding around like loose cannon in a storm tossed ship.

You see, the stomach and liver and colon and things are anchored and supported by cushions of fatty tissue around them. When you dissolve the fatty tissue away you leave the organs in a precarious state of suspension and they are pretty sure to get out of place, and that means floating kidney or a buckled colon or some such dire thing.

This Nashville woman, once indeed pleasing and pleasant enough, is now a mere bag of tricks and her poor husband is paying all kinds of doctors, regular and freak, for all kinds of maneuvers, medicines and manipulations, which purport to get the errant organs back in place and keep them there. The poor fish will keep on paying the doctors, too, until his slender but sadder spouse gets back the 30 pounds of nice, comfortable fat she sacrificed to compete with the wise ladies of the bridge club. I call 'em wise because they never actually did it.

Indeed, the reduction craze is about 99.44 percent talk and only the very silly ones actually do it. If any nice plump lady who reads this is contemplating this form of suicide I would plead with her not to do it. If it is just an inferiority complex, a sense that you are elephantine by comparison with some Skinny Winnie, or that fat feeling, don't do anything desperate or foolish, but write and tell me your height, would.

weight and age, and where it hurts you most, and I'll tell you quite honestly just what you had better do about it.

P. S.—I don't care how slender you were when you got married or whether you got married.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Losing a Long Battle

After fighting the itch for a year I wonder if you can suggest anything else. M.E.F.

Answer—Had you asked me a year ago I would have advised you to consult a physician. With no intention to be sarcastic but for the benefit of well readers I would remind you that the duration of the itch varies inversely with the intelligence of the patient. Of course scabies may last for seven years if you use the wrong treatment or use the right treatment in the wrong way, or use any combination of these for an itching skin disease which is not scabies at all.

But It Is Tough On The Doctors

Would like to ask you if eating from four to six apples (Jonathans) a day will harm me, besides regular meals. I am 23 years old. Miss B.C.B.

Answer—No, it is all right if you want to repel young doctors.

No Mucous Colds

I saw where you claimed there is no such thing as mucous colitis. I have been troubled about eight years and would like to have your information about my diet or any remedy you will suggest. R.M.M.

Answer—If I claimed there is no such thing how can I suggest a remedy for it? However, I didn't deny the entity. I said in the article you saw that I had no more to say on the subject—I told all I knew about it in that article.

Stop Boiling It

Is it wise for an elderly person who has been drinking boiled coffee, rather strong, for 35 years, to begin now to drink unboiled coffee? Mrs. S.L.E.

Answer—Well, better just try it once, and if you don't die of delight you may gradually accustom yourself to the aroma of real coffee.

ITS STYLE YOU PAY FOR

His play—That's the one great mystery of life to me—how you can go down town and deliberately pay $25 for a hat that hasn't a dollar and a half's worth of material in it. The simpler and scantier a woman's hat is, the more it seems to cost. What's the glorious little idea, anyway? I see hats in the windows that are marked at $5 that look every bit as good as that one. And yet you come trotting home, all aglow, to inform me what a prize you've picked up at what $25.

Her counter play—No, you never write and tell me your height, would.

(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

Men are so dumb that way. It isn't the amount of material that is in a woman's hat that makes it swag and fashionable and wonderful. It's the style, the art, the pose. You might as well compare the painting of a red barn to a portrait by Franz Hals. There's a thousand times as much paint and labor, measured by bulk, in painting the barn. Oh, you get the idea, do you? I'm quite surprised.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counsellor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamp, self-addressed envelope, is enclosed. Address: Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

THE FAD OF THE MOMENT

Bobbed or unbobbed. Galoshes turned down or up. Mah Jongge or bridge. Skirts long or short. Touring or sedan. Black bottom or Charleston. One color and the black heeled. One piece or two piece. Cross word puzzles or questions. And so the styles of games, dresses and tests change. A rage for this. Then a rage for that. What next?

We, of this column, are next. Of course! We'll be more up-to-date and we'll beat those human interrogation points who ask us to answer questions which deal only with information or facts, the answers to which can be found in books.

We'll ask ourselves and our children questions which test something more than ability to memorize facts. We'll discover our mental capacity for new ideas, our originality, our power of observation, our skill in handling people, our power to win friends, our actions in society. In other words we will take a series of self-analyses along the entire range of qualities which lead to success, to happiness, and to satisfying human relationship.

Watch this column for the biggest idea ever presented to parents, youth and children for self-examination of others. Knowing Thyself, Knowing Thy Neighbors, and Knowing How to Relate Yourself to Your Neighbor spell SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS. Teachers, parents, clubs and Parent-Teacher associations are hereby given permission to use these original ideas as they appear every other week without cost or fear of infringement of any rights. This is a concession which I grant to the RECORD-HERALD and to the readers of "Our Conversation Corner."

Here's the first. Anyone may try it. Sharpen pencils. Under score. If you want the correct answers clip and send to me with the usual courtesy of that ever-to-be-mentioned stamped, return envelope. If you, Mrs. Mother and Madam Teacher, neglect to give youth a chance to try it then you are missing a splendid device for imparting interest in etiquette. But why shouldn't the grown-ups try it themselves? The statements which follow touch the daily life of everyone under 90 who hasn't rheumatic fever or isn't confined to an institution for the feeble-minded.

HOW DO YOU DO?

1. A girl or a woman always rises when a boy or man is presented her. (Yes, No.)
2. She always rises when she is the hostess. (No, Yes.)
3. She always rises when the one introduced is much older. (Yes, No.)
4. A girl is always presented to a man or boy. (Yes, No.)
5. An unmarried school teacher is presented to the mother of her pupil. (No, Yes.)
6. A boy extends his hand to his principal or his new friend.

Men are so dumb that way. It isn't the amount of material that is in a woman's hat that makes it swag and fashionable and wonderful. It's the style, the art, the pose. You might as well compare the painting of a red barn to a portrait by Franz Hals. There's a thousand times as much paint and labor, measured by bulk, in painting the barn. Oh, you get the idea, do you? I'm quite surprised.

Matinee Ladies

By William B. Courtney

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picture production of this novel.

CHAPTER I
"It isn't a fit way for a decent man to make a living!"

Bob Ward, as sincere as stubborn, and as humble as handsome, made no conscious or deliberate effort to achieve a dramatic effect. But he was so vitally young and lusty, so alive and good-natured and real, that to his two college chums it seemed incongruous to hear from his lips anything that smacked of moralizing. Their howls of derision rent the un-academic air of a University Heights boarding house.

"I mean it fellows! I really don't think it's a fit, or fair, or honorable thing for a chap to make a living by acting as a clandestine escort for cheating wives!"

"Oh, Bob, you old gluepot, please cut it out!" he begged. "Or you'll have to buy me a new set of buttons for this vest!"

"Yes, Bob," gasped Freddy, suffering even more acutely, "honest, if you uncork another one of those platitudes, and keep that Model Young Man look on your mug as long as I can, I'll just up and bust, that's all!"

Bob grinned good-humoredly. "Well, I'm glad you crackbrains find me amusing."

"Amusing? Oh, no! We're laughing at you, son, the same way we'd laugh at undertaker ads. It ain't what you say, but how you say it, and how you look!"

"Be that as it may," rejoined Bob, pleasantly but firmly and not at all in a bantering mood, "but I don't want my sheepskin, my engineering degree, to be tainted by the knowledge that I earned it through helping married women to get vicarious thrills!"

"Now I'm sure you're making a mistake to study engineering," taunted Arch. "You're cut out for an actor. A tank town trooper, whose virtuous ankles never trip on temptation—on the stage. Whose chaste eyes see only the gold behind the digger—on the stage. Whose—"

"Aw, lay off, before I drop you out the window!" Bob uncoiled his six-foot-two frame of football bone and muscle—two hundred and ten pounds, in the aggregate—from a decrepit armchair and elbowed for his tormentors.

Fred and Arch, who knew the potency of those big hands, and the fair ability of their husky possessor to make good his threat on them, one at a time or together, dodged to safety, and resorted to argument.

"You big eshead, you're in hock up to your ears, and behind in your tuition payments. How in Hannan can you afford to turn down this job?" stormed Fred, earnest now.

"This job," put in Arch, "that we were big-hearted enough to get for an ungrateful bull cow like you!"

"Yes, a foolish move that'll probably cost us our jobs—when you sop those brick scows of yours on the floor of the Inn. Madame Leonie will think we've brought her a baby boxcar instead of a dancing entertainer!"

"But can't you lounge lazards get it into your sponge cake heads that I'm telling you I don't want to be a dancing entertainer?"

"Why not, noble knight," mocked Arch. "Some of our very best students are such. Like me and Freddy, for instance."

"Seriously, Bob," broke in Freddy, "there's nothing wrong in it. Really, I wouldn't want to do it any more than you, if there was. You know, I come from one of those old-fashioned small town families, myself. You needn't worry about these ladies who come to the Inn being straying wives. Most of 'em are so old and ugly

The new officers are: Elders, Warren T. Bee, F. S. Newson, J. H. Plate, W. E. Smith, W. H. Smith and J. L. Burns; trustees, W. P. Drumme, J. A. Long, W. A. Boone, C. W. St. John, J. W. Lee, H. A. Engleking, C. R. Alexander, P. M. Sanford and E. R. Edmonds; deacons, J. T. Wells and John Weiner.

The Devil Horns In To Prove Existence

By O. D. TOLISCHUS
BERLIN, April 6.—The courts of Munich have been called upon to decide whether there is such a thing as a personal devil.

For some time, scientific and occult circles in Germany have been baffled by a new medium, a 13-year old Rumanian peasant girl named Eleonore Zugan, who claims to be possessed by the Dumanian devil "Dracu," who tortures and scratches her. These manifestations of the supposed devil within Eleonore were demonstrated at numerous sittings held under the auspices of Countess Zoe Wassilko, who said she is a pupil of the famous Professor Freud of Vienna.

At these sittings, the spectators were shown a picture of the devil in the shape of a dragon. This dragon picture was beaten, at the command of Eleonore, whereupon Eleonore's body began to twitch in confusion and apparently spontaneously and from within there appeared scratches on her body which swelled up and as suddenly disappeared.

Numerous scientific investigators were unable to explain this phenomena. Then Dr. Hans Rosenbusch, of Munich, published an article in the Tagblatt of Berlin claiming that he and several fellow-investigators had ascertained at special sittings that the scratches were inflicted by either the countess or by Eleonore herself and that they always appeared shortly after either the countess or Eleonore had touched that particular spot. The accompanying phenomena, like the swelling and the sudden disappearance, Dr. Rosenbusch said, were manifestations of a certain condition of the skin quite familiar to medical science.

Lumber Jack, He Like These Ol' Time Songs

(By Universal Service)
MONTREAL, Que., April 6.—The great picturesque and snappily garbed French-Canadian lumberjacks and river drivers who were and are popularly supposed to sing songs and ditties best heard in lumber camps or on deserted portions of the trail and river, have been singing for the last two or three hundred years, but simple little children's songs.

Then, too, they have sung songs of farm life in France, many of which are tinged with pathos. This has been revealed in a translation of 30 songs of French-Canadian, made by J. M. Gibbon, foremost Canadian author.

The translator not only states in his book, "Canadian Folk Songs, Old and New," that the first white men's music to be heard in America, were the French songs brought over from France, corresponding to the English songs of the Tudor and Stuart periods, but that many of them date as far back as the 12th century.

He says in his book that the tunes of famous Scotch songs, including "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon," was found in a French manuscript of the 17th century.

Denmark Broadcasts To Jail Prisoners

COPENHAGEN, April 6.—The latest idea in the Danish radio field is the introduction of broadcasting in the jails. The prisoners of the Horsens institution have manufactured a number of radio instruments which will be placed in the cells of occupants who have shown good behavior.

The director and his assistants will plan a selected program and exclude all news that can give the captives a notion of crimes committed after the commencement of their terms. On the other hand they will get an opportunity to listen to musical pieces, sermons, and lectures ordered for the particular purpose and in which they may receive an impression of what is happening in the world, with a natural exclusion made as to the events of the underworld.

'FIRE BRIGADE' IS NEW FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Not since Charles Ray began his sensational comeback has he had a role that compared with Terry O'Neill in "The Fire Brigade," the great fire picture now playing at the California theatre. It was produced by Hunt Stromberg for Mero-Goldwyn-Mayer.

As Terry O'Neill, Ray plays the part of a young man, just deciding to follow the vocation that his father and grandfather have both given up everything for. It takes him through his days as a recruit, then his actual experiences as a fireman, revealing his innermost feelings when first called into duty, and his subsequent heroism. Through the whole there is a charming love story.

The role gives Ray an opportunity not unlike that which John Gilbert had in "The Big Parade," and it is expected that the picture will do for the unsung, everyday heroes, what Vidor's production did for the American soldier.

Just as no one could possibly see "The Big Parade" without realizing the horrors and futility of wars, "The Fire Brigade" is having an unlimited influence in impressing upon the public the necessity of fire prevention.

Realizing this, the International Order of Fire Engineers, and the Pacific Coast Bureau of Fire Prevention, headed by Fire Marshal Jay W. Stevens, cooperated with the M-G-M organization to the utmost in the making of the picture.

A large percentage of the profits are being turned over to the International Order for their work in furthering fire prevention, and to various fire and sick benefits, maintained by fire department locals.

Ironworker Confesses To Killing Business-Like Better Half

(By Universal Service)
NEW YORK, April 6.—Edward de Mars confessed early this morning that he killed his wife Helen, aged 60.

De Mars, who is an iron worker, after being grilled for more than ten hours, said that he struck his wife in the back of the head three times with a hammer and then left the house.

Immediately after he killed his wife, according to the confession he made to detectives, De Mars left the house.

Detectives said that De Mars told them that he killed his wife because she had too many men friends.

The woman's body was discovered shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Detectives were in the house when De Mars called on the phone and asked to speak to his wife. A detective who answered the phone told De Mars that his wife was very ill and to come home at once. He did, and detectives immediately began to question him.

At first De Mars insisted that he believed that his wife was slain by robbers and explained that she had just collected more than $200 in rents from a large number of rooms which she keeps. To hear out this theory, De Mars pointed out that his wife's stocking where she usually kept her money, was slashed.

De Mars, a stolid, taciturn, powerful man, six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds, told them in detail of his movements yesterday morning and something of his life with his wife. He had married her twenty years ago in Norristown, Pa., where she was living under the name of Helen Conroy, although she was the widow of a man named Krammer. De Mars had been an iron worker, but he had done little work since his wife started running the rooming house ten years ago. Occasionally he did an odd job, dabbled in real estate, or performed the functions of a handy man about the house. Both he and his wife collected the rent money he said. His businesslike wife supplied him with pocket money, he admitted.

De Mars said that two years ago he sold a hotel near Ogdensburg, N. Y., and turned the proceeds, $4,500, over to his wife, partly because of his inability to read and write. It was learned that Mrs. De Mars had several thousand dollars in a saving bank and had out a will leaving $7,000 to her husband. She also had at least one insurance policy of $1,000, of which he was the beneficiary.

De Mars, said, according to the police, that he threw the hammer with which he killed his wife, into an ash can outside his house. As soon as he confessed, police started to look for the murder weapon.

Windy City Boasts of One of World's Most Unusual Streets

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, April 5.—Risking his life to test a theory was the strange experiment recently of Captain F. T. Courtney, an airplane test pilot, who crashed in his "Autogiro" windmill airplane at Southampton as a result of his experiment. The flier revealed that he had expected an accident before he began the flight, having deliberately risked death to test out his theory.

Captain Courtney was laid up in a hospital for some time after the crash by his injuries. He afterward expressed the belief that had the plane failed 10 feet higher he would have been killed. He commented on the experience:

"I expected one of the four rotating vanes to fail on that flight, and told the experts on the ground to watch for a certain kind of vibration in the vanes.

"My prolonged study of the machine had convinced me that if unexpected loads were, in certain conditions, thrown suddenly on the joint of each wing with the supporting column, something was sure to break.

"I had discussed this theory of mine with technical experts, but people do not always agree on these things, and it is sometimes difficult to get technical experts to see eye to eye with the test pilot.

"I do not suggest any kind of negligence. It was just one of those occasions on which there is a difference of opinion among technicians.

"The failure occurred on a turn at a height of about 60 feet. Captain Courtney revealed, adding that "there was a loud tearing sound, and one of the wings flew right off, fortunately missing the machine."

The adventurous pilot then recounted the terrible effect of vibration on the machine, declaring that "it became infinitely worse, the entire machine rocking violently." He added:

"I was nearly thrown out of my seat, only the strap around my waist saving me. It seemed that my head must come off, as it was rocked to and fro 120 times a minute, with the wildly revolving wings. Curiously enough, I retained a clear head.

"At the sound of a second hour report, I thought that I had hit the ground, but actually I was still 20 feet up. Another of the rotating wings had broken. The machine, with two remaining vanes fluttering uselessly, lunged like a stone to earth, and I do not know much about what happened afterward, till I was in the hospital."

Despite his harrowing experience, Captain Courtney retains his faith in the "autogiro" principle of flight, in which four rotating

THRILLING WAR PICTURE COMES TO RICHMOND

The war between Italy and Austria in 1810 forms the background for Corinne Griffith's latest picture, "The Lady in Ermine," now at the Richmond theatre. Built to a climax, in which the heroine is faced with seeing her husband shot as a spy or of saving his life at the cost of her honor, the story teems with suspense and action. It opens on the eve of war and at the marriage of an Italian Countess to one of the most popular officers in the Italian army.

The cleverness of the picture's construction and the manner in which the suspense is built and maintained is due largely to the direction of James Flood, but in a great measure the plausibility of the film is due to Miss Griffith's absorbing acting in a difficult role.

Other film features on the same program include "Easy Payments," a comedy based on "The Married Life of Helen and Warren"; "Prizma," the screen magazine; and a Grantland Rice "Sportlight."

E Pluribus Unum Means Many For One Place

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, April 5. Presidents may come and go, but the job hunters—never.

Since congress adjourned, President Coolidge has been deluged by delegations seeking posts for their friends. The seven judgeships created by congress because of the crowded court dockets since prohibition have attracted an army of applicants who are burning up the telegraph wires with fervid appeals. Uncle Sam's post office department has also shown a heavy increase in receipts.

President Coolidge today showed to White House visitors a cartoon from Harper's Weekly in 1885 in which the White House bore the label, "employment agency." "E Pluribus Unum" over the front door was translated to "many for one place."

HUGE INCREASE SEEN IN LYNCH MURDER IN U.S.

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, April 6.—Huge increase in "lynch murders" occurred in 1926 when 30 persons were lynched, or nearly double the number in 1925, the commission on race relations of the federal council of churches announced today. Only 17 lynchings occurred in 1925 and 16 in 1924, the report pointed out. The churchmen expressed themselves as bitterly disappointed by the increase.

Five states had to be removed from the "honor roll" because of the reappearance of lynchings within their borders. They were New Mexico, which had a record of no lynchings for the preceding 10 years; Kentucky, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

The total number of states free from mob murders was 38. The same as in the two previous years. States which never had a lynching are Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Other states were listed on the "honor roll" as follows:

States with no record of a lynching since 1886—Connecticut, Maine and New Jersey.

States with no record of a lynching for the past 20 years—Delaware, Michigan, Wisconsin and Nevada; for the past 15 years—Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, South Dakota; for the past 10 years—New York, North Dakota, Oregon and Pennsylvania; for the past five years—Arizona, California, Colorado, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Carolina, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming; for the last two years—Oklahoma and Illinois; last year—Alabama, Louisiana, Missouri, Ohio and Utah.

Airship Plans Were Refused By Napoleon

(By Universal Service)
MOSCOW, April 6.—Secret Romanoff documents just brought to light show that if Napoleon had not brushed aside the poor German mechanic Leppich with the brusque remark, "I've no time to listen to such fantastic tales," air fleets that rained bombs would have been in use more than a hundred years ago.

Had the plans which Leppich offered Napoleon been accepted by the "Little Corporal" he would have been able to annihilate his enemies with death and destruction from the sky and the course of history would have been changed.

Alexander I, Czar of Russia from 1801 to 1825, had the insight to appreciate Leppich's startling plans for bomb-carrying air ships which Napoleon had so curtly refused to inspect. In fact, he had clutched at the great opportunity and was secretly at work to build a fleet of "aerodromes" or "aerostats" when Napoleon made his insane invasion of Russia—that mad mistake which left nearly half a million Frenchmen buried under Russian snow.

The devastating effect of the war with Napoleon's Grand Army and the burning of Moscow prevented Alexander from carrying out his grandiose dreams of an air fleet.

No explanation is given as to why the invention was never used thereafter. The plans were doomed to lie in the dark archives of Russia while Alexander's army fought the world's greatest military genius. Probably the dreamy Czar lost interest in the air fleet after the turmoil of Napoleon's invasion was over.

At any rate in every war Russia fought between 1812 and the world war the way to quick and startling victory lay in the secret archives of the Czar, waiting only to be put into use.

Marines Need Transport
Secretary of the Navy Wilbur confirmed the exclusive Universal Service dispatch saying that a third regiment of marines has been ordered to China, but said the navy had been unable as yet to secure a transport.

It is likely the marines will sail on the date set, April 12-13 on one of the Dollar liners.

Japanese To Fight
The Japanese had decided to make a fight of it and defended their concession at Hankow, Rear-Admiral H. H. Hough of the American Yangtze river patrol, informed the state department tonight. They have moored two cruisers, four destroyers and one gunboat opposite the city for this purpose. They are understood to have threatened a major bombardment of the native part of the city in the event the concession is again attacked and to have demanded the release of Japanese held as hostages.

U. S. Woman Arrested
Mrs. Mildred Mitchell, former San Francisco newspaperwoman, and Wilbur Burton, of Columbus, Ohio, arrested in a raid on the Soviet Embassy at Peking, will probably be tried before the American consular court at Tientsin on a charge of inciting the Cantonese to riot in Peking. It was indicated here today.

The raid on the embassy was staged by General Chang Tso Lin, leader of the North China army and a prominent anti-communist. He is relied upon by the foreign powers to protect their nationals at Peking in the event of a Cantonese uprising.

It was strongly intimated that if the two Americans are found to be guilty of propaganda for the Cantonese they will be kept under guard of American forces at Tientsin.

By WILLIAM FLYTHE
(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The United States tonight prepared to meet an expected emergency in North China as the menace to Americans there increased.

A regiment of infantry at Tientsin and 500 marines at Peking received orders to protect Americans at those places should rioting occur. Admiral Clarence S. Williams, commander-in-chief of the American forces in China, prepared to rush reinforcements from Shanghai.

Americans Periled
The possible fate of these Americans numbering several hundred, depends upon a decisive battle now in progress at Pukow, an important railway junction north of Nanking. Unless the Shantung forces check the Cantonese "march to Peking" at this place, there will be no further obstacle in their way.

Alarming reports continued to pour in from American representatives in Shina, but for the most part were kept secret. They were the subject of a long conference between President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

There was said to be no change in the determination of the President to protect Americans in China. He is said to consider that they have a right there under treaties and that the government is obligated to protect them. His great concern now is to have the large number of Americans in the interior reach places where United States troops can guarantee their safety.

These three places are Shanghai, where several thousand Americans are already concentrated, Peking and Tientsin. In North China, where refugees are seeking safety, 200 CUT OFF

It was estimated that upwards of 200 Americans are completely cut off from rescue in the Yangtze valley. There are as many or more in the interior around Peking and Tientsin. Anti-foreign demonstrations have not yet affected the interior.

The intensity of the battle in the region of Pukow is emphasized in reports from the fighting areas. The plan of General Chiang Kai Shek to concentrate his troops to the north of Nanking, for a drive against Tientsin and other northern cities, has been forestalled by a severe counter-attack delivered by General Chang Tsung Chang.

It is reported that General Chiang Kai Shek will go to Nanking and take personal command of the drive into Shantung. The civil and political administration of Shanghai has been turned over by Chiang Kai Shek to Wong Ching Wei, chairman of the central committee of the Kuomintang.

Apparently the breach between Chiang Kai Shek and the extreme nationalist leaders has been healed.

Soviets Are Raided
Meanwhile, reports from Peking state that the raid on the Soviet embassy there, staged today by Chinese police, is continuing.

According to the police, evidence has been secured which indicates that plans were under way in Peking to establish a Kuomintang government there.

Sixth Chinese and eighteen Russians, found in the embassy, have been detained. It is altogether probable that the Chinese will be executed.

Papers, Kuomintang flags and propaganda, and rifles and ammunition have been confiscated at Peking.

feeted them, however, although the situation is described as one which may become perilous overnight and without any possibility of relief from foreign troops.

Americans who have not abandoned the Yangtze valley are to be left there. It was indicated in official dispatches today. Many have refused to leave the upper river. Around Chungking and practically all shipping has left that area for the lower river.

Admiral Williams today reported that more would probably have to be abandoned due to the inability of getting coal for the river steamers.

"It may be necessary to have sufficient coal shipped from Shanghai to get the coal-burning ships down the river to Shanghai," he said.

The coal-burning ships are now proceeding down the river to Hankow. There they will form a unit of considerable strength and endeavor to run through the hostile armies on either side of the river from there to Shanghai.

U. S. Ships Near Hankow
All of the American ships have already left the upper river and are nearing Hankow with such refugees as could be persuaded to leave. It was estimated that fully 100 are still in the interior and communication with them is lost.

There will be a little delay in getting away from Hankow as possible, Admiral Williams declared in a report today which described conditions as "very bad." There are now 105 Americans taken up homes along the water front so that they can evacuate at a moment's notice. This number is being rapidly reduced as they are sent down the river.

Admiral Williams added that about 35 or 40 Americans will be required to remain until "the end" on account of their duties. They have been warned that they do so at their own risk, he said. If necessary they may spend the night on warships and go ashore under suitable guard during the day.

SHANGHAI, April 6.—The Nationalists have suffered heavily at the hands of the Shantung forces, north of Pukow, reports today indicate.

As the Cantonese armies sweep northward, General Chang Tsung Chang, commander of the Shantung troops, is reported to be putting forward a bold front, bombing the Nationalist lines with aerial bombs.

Conditions are still serious for foreigners in the Yangtze valley districts, according to naval reports.

Battle Intense
The intensity of the battle in the region of Pukow is emphasized in reports from the fighting areas. The plan of General Chiang Kai Shek to concentrate his troops to the north of Nanking, for a drive against Tientsin and other northern cities, has been forestalled by a severe counter-attack delivered by General Chang Tsung Chang.

It is reported that General Chiang Kai Shek will go to Nanking and take personal command of the drive into Shantung. The civil and political administration of Shanghai has been turned over by Chiang Kai Shek to Wong Ching Wei, chairman of the central committee of the Kuomintang.

Papers, Kuomintang flags and propaganda, and rifles and ammunition have been confiscated at Peking.

The international settlement in Shanghai is safe from attacks by the general labor union, according to a joint manifesto issued by Wong Ching Wei, the non-communist now in charge of the civil administration of Shanghai, and Chen Tuh Sin, Communist Nationalist leader. The manifesto denies that there is any split between the right and left wings of the Nationalists.

Wong Ching Wei intimates that diplomatic negotiations with the powers for the return of the concessions to the Chinese will be started as soon as Eugene Chen, Nationalist foreign minister, arrives at Shanghai.

General Chiang Kai Shek agrees with Wong Ching Wei that the abolition of alleged unequal treaties and the return of the foreign concessions can be accomplished only by proper negotiations.

Chinese Leave Shanghai
Many Chinese are leaving Shanghai fearing outbreaks. It is estimated that eight thousand Chinese have departed from Shanghai for Nationalist controlled cities, including Ningpo, Soochow and Hangchow.

Seaman Weir, stoker on the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, is dying as the result of the accidental discharge of a pistol which he was loading. The accident occurred on the bank.

A Coldstream guards trooper is reported to have committed suicide today. The British military authorities are reluctant about the tragedy.

Miss Terry O'Driscoll, an American newspaper woman, arrived here today and related a story of the terrorism suffered by Americans in Hankow, at the hands of the Nationalists.

Miss O'Driscoll, who works on the American-owned Hankow Herald, stated that she had been attacked and thrown from a rickshaw while going to the steamer to depart from Hankow. The woman said that foreigners are no longer safe on the streets of Hankow. Soldiers and civilians taunt all foreigners and treat them in menacing fashion.

Soldiers, said Miss O'Driscoll, seem to take a keen delight in intimidating foreigners with the points of their bayonets.

(By Universal Service)
By H. H. STANSBURY
LONDON, April 6.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, Great Britain's foreign secretary, declared, in the House of Commons this evening, that the British policy towards China continues to be one of liberal revision of the existing treaties.

Sir Austen stated, however, that the policy had been suspended until the Cantonese had given satisfaction replies to the notes protesting against the Nanking outrages.

He announced, also, that "all indications are that Japan, the United States and ourselves will probably be in agreement, not merely in asking for reparations, but as to what reparations should be asked."

Sir Austen said that he did not know yet whether the other powers would concern in demanding redress from the Cantonese. These declarations were made in the course of an important debate on Britain's policy in China. The foreign secretary's speech, was preceded by acrimonious discussion, in which the labor party's antagonism to the government was obviously embittered by the New Troy measure designed to curtail the powers of the trade unions.

Ramsay MacDonald declared that labor's policy was one recognizing China's independence. He warned the government against sending an ultimatum to the Cantonese and advanced the suggestion that "if inquiry could now be made by the committee appointed by the League of Nations, it would do a tremendous amount of good."

"The Chinese suspect us of propaganda and our great problem is to remove that suspicion and the only way to do that is to go straight ahead with recognition of China as a self-governing country."

Sir Austen Chamberlain opened his address with a detailed account of the Cantonese outrages along the Yangtze river and said that the campaign of hostility was directed now, indiscriminately, against all foreigners.

"We have no interest in China," he said, "except to live on terms of peace and friendship with the Chinese people; but in the face of a government which either cannot or will not, control its troops and which cannot protect the foreigners within its gates, or won't protect them, we must take such precautions as we can for the protection of our own people, pursuing their lawful avocations."

"To enable us to discharge this duty, we have thought it necessary to send further reinforcements. We earnestly sought, to settle this difficult question in a friendly spirit, and recognize all that is legitimate in Chinese national aspirations, but how can we negotiate with the Cantonese government in the face of the Nanking outrages and its failure to give protection at Hankow and other places, or to do anything to stop the anti-foreign propaganda and to prevent the cry of 'kill the Christians! kill the foreigners!'"

"I trust that the national government in the south will recognize its responsibilities and obligations, so that we can pursue the policy indicated in my memorandum of December last, which is the groundwork on which I hope to build our future relations with China."

"We are not prepared to hustle out of China, and withdraw our nationals from Shanghai and other places, and we are not prepared to be treated as if we had no right to that which is our treaty right, or as if the lives of our people are of no account."

Prices Fall In Italy But Not For American Tourist

(By Universal Service)
By JOHN T. BURKE
ROME, April 2.—The cost of living in Italy is falling, slowly, it is true, but nevertheless, the prices of foodstuffs and clothing show appreciable decreases.

Contrasting the upward trend of prices for necessities of life in the United States and England with this decrease in Italy, the bureau of statistics, which has been developed into a very important department, ascribes the mitigation of conditions to the inexorable policy of Mussolini in forcing increased production agriculturally and industrially.

This policy is supplemented and supported by the contraction of the circulation of fiat money and the success of the new loan which is not only restabilizing the lira, but bids fair to enable Count Volpi to make even more impressive reductions in the national debt.

But while wholesale and retail merchants are cutting prices, travelers in Italy are reaping little if any benefit as hotel and pension rates are just as high as in some cases even higher than when the lira was $1 to the dollar.

And thereby hangs a tale. All the hotelmen are shrieking "where are the Americans?"

The influx of guests from "dollarland" is far below the standard of the last two years. Perhaps the tide will turn toward Italy when her Bonifaces follow the example of other business men by adjusting rates to harmonize with the appreciation of the currency.

"Hawaii is bonded compared to most states and many municipalities," he added.

R. U. H. S. WINS SIXTH STRAIGHT GAME IN SERIES

Oilers Defeat Oakland Team In Sensational Batting Orgy

Yesterday afternoon at Dushood Park in Oakland R.U.H.S. met the University High Cubs and after the smoke of battle had cleared the Oilers won their sixth straight game by a count of 10 to 6. Arato, who started for the Oakland team, was knocked out of the box in the third inning after five runs were scored off of him. Burked took the mound at the start of the fourth and the same amount of tallies were registered against him.

From Williams' single in the first inning to C. Baldwin's double in the seventh the game was a continual bombardment of University's moundmen.

Anderson again took the mound for Richmond, despite his sensational pitching against McClymonds High Tuesday. Two home runs by Harry Butler scored all of the Oakland team's runs. Anderson struck out seven men and allowed but five hits.

In the first inning R.U.H.S. made three hits account for as many tallies. C. Pinto, first man up, fanned on four pitched balls. Williams doubled to right. Gordon singled infield, Williams holding third. C. Baldwin walked to fill the bases. Glum beat out a hit to short and Williams scored. Phillips walked, forcing in Gordon. Baldwin singled to right to score C. Baldwin. Swenson and Anderson fanned to put an end to the score for the time being.

R.U.H.S. started where they left off at in the first and scored one tally as a result of Pinto's single and Gordon's double.

The rest of the game was a listless affair, with the local team, pouncing the Old American apple at will. Every man on the team connected for one or more base hits.

If anyone outshone the other in hitting yesterday afternoon the honor must go to Walter Gordon, star shortstop of the local team. Gordon went to the plate five times and walked twice, but connected for three hits.

Oakland high was tentatively scheduled to play the Oilers last Friday at the Bayview diamond, but when R.U.H.S. made the trip to Oakland there was no Oakland high team to play. Perhaps, it was cold feet. This forfeit counts as an official win for the Richmond high nine.

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—An overwhelming vote to revive the whipping post in Michigan was recorded in the house of representatives here today.

Two time bills were amended to provide that bank robbers, holdup men, and burglars receive from 10 to 20 strokes of the lash on the bare back, well laid on every six months, during their prison term.

The whipping would be administered by the warden of the prison or one of his deputies.

There were only six dissenting votes in the house. The bill now goes to the senate for concurrence.

SELF DEFENSE TO BE CLAIMED BY 2 SLAYERS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Mrs. Ruth M. Snyder and Henry J. Gray will swear that Albert Snyder, art editor struck the first blow and was slain in self defense.

When they take the witness stand in their own behalf both the blonde widow and the culprit salesman will testify that her husband for whose murder they will be on trial April 18 in Long Island City was felled by a blow not intended to be fatal.

Following this decision learned today exclusively it was discovered that Samuel L. Miller, attorney for Gray, William J. Millard, who became associated with Miller in the case today and Mrs. Snyder's counsel, Edgar Hazelton, and Dana Wallace, will confer this week.

At that time it will be decided whether Mrs. Snyder and Gray will join their interests through the trial.

The defense will maintain that the only premeditated wrong suffered by the art editor from his wife and Gray was the illicit love between them.

Some Collect Stamps, Some Ballot Boxes

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, April 6.—Six gangsters entered the polling place of the 29th precinct of the 45th ward shortly after the polls closed today, and with drawn guns forced every one in the place out. They then loaded the ballot boxes in an automobile and sped away before the police could surround them.

Local Sport Notes

The Quincy club of the Three-I league is reported to be hot on the trail of Gene Wright, husky righthander of the Richmond fire department baseball team. The former Oak and Kansas City twirler has received a number of attractive offers from league teams this spring, and may accept the Quincy contract.

The Three-I league is composed of teams from Illinois, Iowa and Indiana.

Wright was farmed out to the Bloomington club of the same league several years ago by the Oaks, but finished the season in the Kitty League, Kentucky, where he had a good year on the mound.

Not content with a pitching staff that already compares favorably with that of any other team in the Three-C league, Phil Jones, manager of the Standard Pacific "Sannies," is endeavoring to sign up Bowers, recruit pitcher released this week by the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Jones already has Roland Roberts, former San Francisco Seal, on his mound staff. Roberts, with "Skipper" Roberts, of Standard Oil league fame, as his battery mate, pitched sensational ball in the Three-C league several seasons ago.

Dick Paasch, former Richmond high school grid star, is reported to be seriously considering entering St. Mary's college of Oakland next August. Paasch weighs in the neighborhood of 200 pounds and should be a valuable addition to the Saints' eleven.

Carol Pitchford, another local high school product, has already won a name for himself at St. Mary's, playing fullback on the varsity squad last season. He is picked as a certainty for first string fullback on the varsity this fall.

JACK DEMPSEY TO FIGHT IN THREE MONTHS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Through a source very close to Tex Rickard, Universal Service today secured the first definite information on the promoter's plans for Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion.

Dempsey will make his return to the ring at the Yankee stadium either during the first week in July or in August. The July date with Paulino Uzuuam, as his opponent, seems most probable.

Masked Bandits Get Small Sum In Train Holdup

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, April 6.—Chicago & Alton passenger train number 6, enroute from St. Louis to Chicago, was held up by two masked bandits on the outskirts of Chicago early tonight.

Only the express car and diner were entered. The passengers were unaware that the train had been held up until they reached the Chicago terminal.

The bandits, wearing United States uniforms and white masks, swung on the baggage car as the train pulled out of Joliet. They covered the occupants of the cars with revolvers. The baggage agent was relieved of $38 in cash.

Then they entered the diner and robbed the steward of $37. One of the bandit pair left the train at Western avenue. The other left at Halstead street.

Death From Cancer Grows In Russia

(By Universal Service)

MOSCOW, April 6.—One person in five between the ages of fifty and sixty years dies of cancer in Russia, according to the figures given out by the Soviet Health Department.

Scientists all over the Union are busy with research work trying to solve the mystery of the origin and cure for cancer.

A distinguished surgeon is working on experiments which tend to demonstrate that persons from certain trades and professions are more susceptible to cancerous growths than others.

Fong Wan Herbs
4837 Shattuck Ave., Oakland, Cal.
July 30, 1926.

Two years ago I had Malaria which left me with a twinging pain in my left kidney and running around my left side. Before I came to Oakland I had treated with numerous physicians in New York. As I got no relief whatever, I was advised to make a change of climate. I therefore came West, but here I suffered as badly as ever.

Finally a friend urged me to try the FONG WAN HERBS. One week of that treatment gave me wonderful, permanent relief. During the year that has elapsed since I have had absolutely no indications of my former complaints.

How wonderful it seems that the FONG WAN HERBS could thus help me after the doctors and hospitals had failed. I am a barber by trade. Had it not been for the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENTS how could I have earned a living while suffering with those terrible pains?

I am very thankful to the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST for what he has done for me and am giving him this testimonial as a token of my gratitude.

Plot To Kidnap Oil Magnate In Mexico Charged To Wall Street

(By Universal Service)
MEXICO CITY, April 6.—The plot to kidnap Albert E. Watts, the vice president of the Sinclair Oil corporation, was hatched in Wall street, New York, according to El Sol, the Mexican Federation of Labor organ, which asserts today that police investigations prove that American petroleum interests had thus hoped to embroil the United States and Mexico.

El Sol claims to have some proofs of its charges with names of the American petroleum plotters in the hands of the Mexican police.

The police were silent today on the El Sol charges.

American oil interests, dissatisfied with the Mexican oil legislation, and particularly resenting Sinclair's visit to Mexico to work out an agreement with the government decided to kidnap Watts, Sinclair's friend and right hand man in Mexico, Sol charges.

The kidnaping of Watts, these interests hoped would incite Sinclair and bring about a change in his own policy and also pave the way to cause a definite break between the United States and Mexico, the labor organ claims.

General Federico Cordoba, it is alleged by El Sol, was selected for the kidnaping job.

The plotters handling the Mexico City end of the scheme, it is alleged, approached a chauffeur who was a secret agent employed by the Mexican government and asked him to hold himself in readiness for a confidential job paying big money. The chauffeur is alleged to have attended the plotters' conferences, and got the names and the data leading to the arrest of General Cordoba and his five associates on the eve of the proposed kidnaping.

El Sol forecasts court-martial executions for all the prisoners on charges of treason, the purpose of their proposed crime being to embroil the Mexican government with the United States.

The United States embassy discredits the charge that New York oil interests plotted to kidnap Watts.

Explosion And Fire Ends The Famous Flight Of Italian Ace

(By Universal Service)
ROOSEVELT LAKE, Ariz., 6.—Explosion and fire, which almost completely destroyed Commander Francesco De Pinedo's hydroplane on the lake here this afternoon, probably ended the famous Italian flyer's four-continent, 30,000 mile flight, nearly two-thirds of which had been completed.

De Pinedo's huge monoplane, which landed here at 10:17 a. m. after a four hour flight across a desert from Hot Spring, N. M., was a wreck, the engine having sunk in 100 feet of water. Mechanics who were refueling the machine at the time jumped into the water and reached shore without injury.

The Italian aviator announced that he would remain here a few days in an attempt to salvage the wreckage of his craft, but indicated sadly that he feared his air voyage was ended.

Mechanics who were working on the plane blamed the accident on a leak in the hose line which was being used to refuel the machine from a buoy to which it was anchored near the shore of the lake. It is believed that someone dropped a lighted match near the leak, the trail of gasoline ignited and in an instant reached the plane.

De Pinedo was on shore talking to newspapermen when there was a loud explosion and in a moment the machine was a mass of flames. The Italian, who has won the admiration of the world by his daring flight, was in the midst of one of the most perilous portions of his journey—the crossing of the Colorado desert region, half of which he had traversed. He had planned to hop off from here shortly after noon for San Diego.

Since his departure from Rome in this giant monoplane he has flown down the West African coast, across the Southern Atlantic Ocean, along the east coast of South America, then back northward over the continent to Cuba and thence to the United States.

His itinerary would have taken him back to Rome by a route which would have included a hop across the Northern Atlantic.

Later this afternoon Commander De Pinedo said:

"I will attempt to raise the motor from the bed of the lake. My future plans depend upon its condition when it is recovered."

Plans Made For Truck Boulevard System And Fast Traffic Lanes

Industrial boulevard through Oakland, Emeryville, Berkeley, Albany.

Meeker street, four blocks south of Cutting would form the main arterial industrial highway east to Pullman, thence south to Columbia boulevard, Cleveland avenue skirting El Cerrito hill. Pierce street in West Berkeley. A curve west at Folger avenue in Oakland brings the proposed truck highway onto Green street through Emeryville to Thirty fourth street, Oakland. Thirty fourth street extended Westerly would take the industrial boulevard directly to the Farr terminal on Oakland's western waterfront. Peralta street and Wood street in Oakland, also tie up with the industrial highway for the East Bay cities.

Aronovici has prepared extensive and comprehensive maps showing the proposed street and boulevard improvements. He is also working out in detail the estimated cost of such work, listing all buildings and property which must be acquired to construct this simple system of arterial and lateral highways.

Tenth street becomes an important link in the proposed traffic plan. It is to be extended to the Ford plant site on the inner harbor and the streets and highways committee as well as the city planning committee of the Richmond City Council, are contemplating asking the council to start proceedings to take three feet off the sidewalks on the east and west sides of Tenth street from Roosevelt avenue to Macdonald avenue at least.

Under the direction of Fredenburg, Aronovici is also making a close study of traffic loads carried over the various Richmond streets and boulevards. The proposed boulevard plan is based largely upon this study as the analysis shows where the traffic should be diverted.

"There never was a time in Richmond's history when it is so necessary to plan ahead for our traffic lanes," said Fredenburg. "The opening of the Carquinez bridge is going to provide an additional traffic problem which vitally affects Richmond's future. And within the next five or six years we will have the Richmond-San Rafael ferry to pour additional thousands of motor vehicles directly into Richmond. We must plan for this traffic today that we will not find ourselves in a deplorable congested condition tomorrow."

P. M. Sanford, president of the Chamber of Commerce voiced his approval of the plans as submitted and paid high tribute to the work of the streets and highways committee, saying: "Mr. Fredenburg and his committee are tackling a mighty big problem. It is one of the most important before Richmond citizens today. It is one that must be solved at once to avoid greater problems in the future. The extension of Garrard boulevard to junction with the San Pablo state highway at the foot of Tank Farm Hill cannot be overestimated in the importance it bears to solving Richmond's pressing motor vehicular traffic problems. It offers a direct route to the Richmond-San Francisco auto ferry, the Richmond-San Rafael auto ferry and the proposed Richmond-San Rafael highway bridge. It also will open up not only Tenth street but Ninth Eighth, Seventh, Sixth, Fifth, Fourth and Third streets into the downtown

DIESEL ENGINES TO BE PLACED IN U. S. SHIPS

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Installation of Diesel motor engines in from 12 to 16 more vessels of the government fleet, depending on the money available, was authorized by the United States shipping board today.

Dieselization of this group will give the merchant fleet from 26 to 29 ships equipped with the very latest type of motor engines.

The board also directed Commissioner Benson to contract for installation of Diesel engines in three other vessels, previously authorized. The engines, already purchased by the government, will be installed by the following firms:

The Yonachichi, by the Newport News Shipbuilding Co., $400,000; West Gamma, by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., $410,000; Seminare, by the Todd Shipbuilding Co., of New York, $436,000.

Chairman O'Connor announced that ships in the Australian service line, plying to South America will be Dieselized first, because of the length of the voyages. Dieselization of the American fleet, will then be undertaken.

The Diesel engines are considered especially desirable because they increase the speed of the ships from 1.5 to 1.8 knots, increase the cruising radius and cargo carrying capacity. Only ships of 9000 tons or over will be Dieselized.
